

Happy Friday!

What a week it's been! Mother Nature has made her presence known with frigid temperatures and the first few bouts of accumulating snow in quite some time. Hopefully everyone has been able to take advantage of the snow and get outside to play! Feel free to send along your pictures of snowmen and/or snow angels!

This week's featured picture is the Tinicum marquee, thanking our board of school directors. January is dedicated as School Board Directors Appreciation Month. The nine volunteers on our school board represent the greater community by providing governance for the district. We appreciate their support of the work that each of our administrators, teachers, and support staff do each and every day to make the Palisades experience as meaningful for each student as possible.

Until Monday, enjoy the weekend!
